> The Legislature. The bill (Judge Key's) to authorize the commissioners of Hamilton County to take the boarding of prisoners out of the hands of the Sheriff passed the House on Friday, and now that the responsibility is on the Commissioners, to cut off the perquisites,

Commissioners, to cut off the perquisites, they must expect to be looked after sharp. The people of Hamilton County will not stand a mere transfer of profits from one party to another, but the cost of the support of prisoners will be watched, and will be used in the election of Commissioners.

The bill to change the compensation of County Auditors from fees to salaries, was killed in the House. This was a bull-headed measure, aiming at retreaches, probably the property of the support of payment by fees, which is indispensable to the administration of the office, and substitute that of salaries, graduated by the population of the counties, with salaried clerks at the discretion of the Commissioners. The House did well to kill it, and one would be tempted to think that one who would load his retrenchment bill with a measure so utterly uncalled for as a change in the system of payment, from definite fees to salaries indefinite in number, could not have been very auxious for its passage.

On Saturday a bill was introduced in the Senate to provide for purchasing and distributing the fourth volume of Curwill's Bevised Statutes, and the general appropriation bill was engrossed. The House peased a bill to provide for levying a tax to build bridges on turnpike roads, and indulged in considerable miscellaneous legislation.

Selling Goods, nor Phinciplus.—New York merchants have not yet forgotten the senation produced in increantile circles, during the Castle Garden excitement, by the public announcement made by Mr. Henry C. Bowen, (of the well-known silk-house of Bowen & McNamee.) that the firm had resolved to "sell their goods, not their principles." A few days ago a slaveholding Kentuckian, after buying a bill of goods at this same establishment, (now Bowen, Holmes & Co.,) went into the private office for a conversation with the leading members of the firm, on certain subjects connected with the saving of the Union. The Kentuckian maintained his side of the question with some carnestness, until he was interrupted by the sudden entrance of a western man, a stranger to both parties, who, without waiting to insaving of the Union. The Kentuckian maintained his side of the question with some carnestness, until he was interrupted by the sudden entrance of a western man, a stringer to both parties, who, without waiting to introduce himself, said to Mr. B., "I have come to get a silk dress for my wife." "We don't sell at retail," was the reply. "I can't help that," said the stranger, "I am in from the West, and I want to buy my wife a dress from the man who sells his goods, and set his principles." Mr. B. called one of his clerks, and directed him to show the gratisman the finest silks in the establishment. The Kentuckian put on a look of luitered surprise, and, on resuming his convernation changed the topic of discourse.

Home Heathers.—An old clergyman, one sunday at the close of the sermion, gave notice to the congregation that, in the course of a week, he expected to go on a mission to the heathen. One of the deacons, in great agitation, exclaimed, "Why, my dearwir, you have never told us one word of this before, What shall we do?" "Oh, brother," said the parson, "I don't expect to go out of town."

A bill for the article was sent to the hotel where she was living, when she denied having bought anything of the kind, and even assumed an air of indignation. The proprietor of the store then called upon a gentleman relation of the lady's, under whose protection she was, and explained the circumstances of the affair. He went up to the lady's room, and quite a scene followed, resulting in her confessing not only this but also a number of other similar pecadillos, returning all the stolen articles and stating from whom each was taken. Mn. Flace, of Hamilton County, has damned the Constitution of Ohio. The deed was done in the House, on Thursday. A bill to build a new deaf and dumb asylum was under consideration. A member raised a constitutional objection. Upon this, the evil spirit entered into Mr. Flagg, and he ejaculated—"Damn the Constitution?" We are determined not to be carried away by our feelings, but to relate this calmiy. We would have the constitution of the calming that the breech, the outside diameter is four feet, at the muzile, twenty-singin and inne-tenth inches. It will project a ball of four hundred and twenty-one pounds a distance of five or ings, but to relate this calmly. We would ask Mr. Flagg if his constituents sent him to the Legislature to "dawn the Constitution;" and if it is just to represent the pious people of Cincinnati to the assembled wisdom of the State as a Constitution-damning constitution.

Threather Incident occurred in the Ohio (Va.) County Court, recently. It appears that a Mrs. Mast was placed upon the stand to testify in relation to the murder of her husband, and that after giving her evidence, she turned to the prisoners, and in a voice trembling with passion and emotion, exclaimed: "You bloody villains, you murdered my poor husband!" The impassioned speech of the woman, proceeding from the deepest grief, was too much for the assembled throng, and many in eye was mobitened with tears. Prinsonal Description of Kit Carson.—A Western letter says of Kit Carson: When on his feet, Mr. Carson has a somewhat dumpy look—the result of what the Hoosier girl described in Mr. Douglas as an "in-fy-nite small chance of legs," but he sits upon a horse like a king. I never saw a man presenting a more regal aspect than the veteran mountaineer, when upon his favorite animal, dashing along like the wind. A Dognegay's Mistake.—A droll little affair happened in Montgomery, Ala., a few days since. An officer had arrested a drunken man, and was on his way to the lock-up, when the prisoner violently assaulted him. A gentleman happening by thought it was a "set-to," and attempted to separate them, when another officer arrived on the scene of combat and arrested him for attempting rescue the prisoner, STRANGE SITUATION FOR A HEART. Au actor. eulogizing his mistress one day, indicated by his manner a somewhat different position of the heart. He went on thus "The angel! I have her picture here—I always wear it next my heart!" And here he produced the precious Daguerrectype, not from his beaum, but fram a pocket in—the tail of his coat!

The distemper now prevalent among the cat-tle in Massachusetts, to which we have al-luded, is what is called the pleuro presum-nia. The disease has been known abroad for some time, whonce it has been imported here. Inoculation to prevent the spread of it has long been practiced there with success. DELICACY OF PARISIAN SPECULATORS,-A second unsuccessful attempt has been made, at Paris, to sell, at auction, Lamartine's estate at Meaux. Nobody would bid, because no-

ANOTHER VICTIM OF THE PEMBERTON MILLS. Another Victim of the Pennerton Mills, in excavating the ruins of the Pennerton Mills, the workmen on Saturday came upon the body of Balley, an Englishman, who had been missing since the disaster. The body bere no marks of violence, and it is supposed that he was sufficient.

EXTENSIVE ROBBERY OF BANK FUNDS.—(In Friday last about $5,000 was stolen from express packages of $13,000, in Attien, N. Y. The packages were sent from Wyoming County Bank, and the money was taken while it awaited the arrival of the cars.
